PRHA recruits new physicians to Roblin

Roblin- The Parkland Regional Health Authority (PRHA) is pleased to announce that two new doctors have joined the physician complement in Roblin. The PRHA welcomes the arrival of Dr. Khaled Alhisi and Dr. Mohamed Almdhem to the community of Roblin during the week of September 10th.

PRHA Chief Executive Officer Allan Bradley says it is anticipated that the current complement of three physicians will be able, during the short-term, to provide a full range of support to the Roblin area, which includes hospital, personal care home, emergency room and clinic services.

“The PRHA is pleased to welcome the two new doctors to Roblin and the Parkland area. As a result, Emergency Room coverage has resumed at Roblin District Health Centre,” Bradley stated.

The PRHA sincerely appreciates the commitment and dedication of Dr. Tawfik. Dr. Tawfik has gone above and beyond the call to provide service to Roblin and area residents.

“We recognize and acknowledge the many efforts physicians and PRHA staff and management made in both Roblin and neighbouring areas during the past few months of service disruptions. Thank you is also extended out to the citizens of Roblin and surrounding communities for their patience and understanding during this difficult time,” Bradley added.
